CAPT. MORGAN IS HUSTLING.

Constellation Makes Second Trip in Two Days.

NETTERS FIND FISH SCARCE.

Many Have Given Up and Are Coming Home.

The seiners are finding small schools on Middle Bank and the following fares are at Boston this morning:

Sch. Constellation, 80 barrels fresh mackerel.

Sch. Bessie M. Devine, 50 barrels fresh mackerel.

Sch. Annie M. Parker, 4000 fresh mackerel.

Capt. Thaddeus Morgan in sch. Constellation is hustling, for this is his second trip in two days, he having been at Boston yesterday with 100 barrels. The fish are large, sold for 15 cents apiece and were taken on Middle Bank.

Sch. Corsair arrived at Provincetown yesterday afternoon with 40 barrels of fresh mackerel and sch. Natalie J. Nelson with 50 barrels. Steamer Kearsarge is also reported there with a small fare. The fish were taken on Middle Bank. Sch. John S. Presson is reported to have made a catch and salted.

At Boston today are 200 barrels of fresh mackerel from Provincetown, Vineyard Haven and other places.

Sch. Bessie M. Devine had 25 barrels of porgies at Boston today in addition to her fresh mackerel fare.

Sch. Annie M. Parker, which is at Boston today with mackerel, took her fresh mackerel on Middle Bank on the way home from the Cape Shore with 150 barrels of salt mackerel.

The netters to the southward are doing poorly. One boat set 85 nets Wednesday night and got three mackerel.

Sch. Norumbega, Capt. John McKinnon, has stocked $7300 thus far this season in the mackerel fishery, which puts him in second place at present among the seining fleet. The $5000 which he was reported to have stocked, as previously published, was only on his recent trip, made off No Man's Land, part of the fish being landed at Newport and part here.

Sch. S. F. Maker, Capt. Campbell Peart, stocked $3047 on her recent seining trip, her crew of 18 men sharing $68.72.

Sch. Constellation, Capt. Thaddeus Morgan, stocked $1200 on her fresh mackerel fare landed at Boston yesterday.

Sch. Cherokee was at Newport yesterday with 350 fresh mackerel, and sch. Laura Reed at New Bedford with 800 fresh mackerel. They report fish very scarce and the weather rough and stormy. They also report that many of the netters are giving it up and will soon return home. Several of the fleet are already bound home and some of the larger ones will fit for shore seining and netting. They seem to think that the netting season is over, to the southward.

Capt. Archibald Devine of sch. Bessie M. Devine reports that the mackerel on Middle Bank are in small pods and mixed with porgies. There is no body to the fish. The porgies which the Devine brought in found a ready sale to the shore boats for bait.

While cruising about Portland harbor Tuesday forenoon the officials of the barge office run upon a large school of mackerel off Spring Point ledge that extended down the roads nearly to Diamond Island. This would indicate that the fish will shortly be caught in this vicinity. The vessels of the fishing fleet that were detained in port by the storm put to sea yesterday and are expected to return in a few days with large fares. The local market is still bare.—Portland Argus.

The fare of sch. Rob Roy sold to D. Elwell Woodbury at $13 per barrel, the highest price thus far of the season, and not to the Gloucester Mackerel Company as previously reported.

The Lane trap in the harbor took one mackerel this morning.

A small boat took a few mackerel on the hook off the Whistler yesterday.

OTHERS TOOK FISH

When Sch. Constellation Made Her Haul Yesterday.

Capt. Morgan Says There Is No Body to Schools.

Sch. Constellation at Boston this morning with a fare of fresh mackerel got her fish yesterday afternoon on the southwest part of Middle Bank. Several small schools were showing, but Capt. Morgan did not think there was much body to the fish. He says that three other vessels also made large hauls and he thought they were bound for market, although it was quite calm during the night and they might have salted.

The fare of sch. Rob Roy sold to the Gloucester Mackerel Co. at $12.75 per barrel for her southern fish and $12 per barrel for her Cape Shore fish.

The fare of sch. Smuggler sold to John Pew & Son at $12 per barrel.

Schs. John S. Presson and Natalie J. Nelson are reported to have made hauls on Middle Bank yesterday.

Halibut at Boston.

Sch. Madonna of this port was at Boston yesterday with a fare of halibut.

Good Stock.

Sch. Volant, Capt. William Slade, stocked $1392 on her recent shack trip, the crew sharing $47.

Sch. Olga, 80,000 lbs. cod.

Large cod, $4; market cod, $3; fresh mackerel, 18 cents apiece.

Fishing Fleet Movements.

A Nova Scotia provincial exhibition will soon be held, when special attention will be given to the Dominion fisheries. Extensive exhibits will be made by fish merchants and vessel builders of the leading fishing ports of Nova Scotia.

A $50,000 LOSS.

Gale Played Havoc with Scup Fisheries.

As a result of the storm which has swept along the New England coast since last week between 8000 and 10,000 barrels of scup which had been "held" in Rhode Island pounds owned by various fishermen in that vicinity, have been lost. The fish were valued at nearly $50,000. The loss is one of the most serious ever sustained by the fishermen of Rhode Island.

CAPLIN ARE LATE.

None at Newfoundland and Few at Miquelon.

A dispatch from Miquelon yesterday says that caplin are late this summer. None have struck yet at Newfoundland and only a few have been taken at Miquelon.

Fresh Fish Scarce at Boston.

Fresh fish are scarce at Boston and high prices are the rule. Sch. Olga, which arrived here yesterday with a large fare of fresh cod, towed up there for a market and will make a big stock.

Sch. Flora S. Nickerson, which arrived here this morning with a fare of hake and cusk, also towed to Boston to take out.

Bait.

Plenty of porgies are reported to the southward.

No bait is reported along shore.

The Newburyport bait season opens today.

June 20" SITUATION IMPROVED.

Seiners Make Good Haul off No Man's Land.

NETTERS FIND FISH OFF HERE.

Sch. Bessie M. Devine Lands Two Trips in Two Days.

Capt. Archibald Devine of sch. Bessie M. Devine, is certainly making himself a prominent figure in the seining fleet and doing a hustle which not only shows his ability but is materially adding to his stock. On Friday he was at T wharf, Boston, with 50 barrels of fresh mackerel and this morning found him back there again with another fare of 4000 fresh mackerel in count. The fish were quickly snapped up at the record price of the season this side of New York, 22 1-2 cents apiece, and quickly taken out, and before 8 o'clock the Devine was bound down Boston harbor for the fishing grounds. Capt. Devine doesn't lose much time.

Capt. Devine reported getting his fish six miles from the Boston bay lightship. About 20 sails of seiners were there, and some small hauls were made, the Emerald taking 22 barrels.

Nothing was doing at New Bedford yesterday and the prospect is poor for many arrivals.

The catch of salt mackerel to date is about 12,000 barrels, the Cape Shore fleet, landing 10,000 barrels. The catch of fresh mackerel to date is 38,851 barrels against 45,218 barrels at this time last season.

The fare of Cape Shore salt mackerel at Boston of sch. Annie M. Parker sold to Potter & Wrightington at $12.50 per barrel.

At Dingle, Ireland, the mackerel fishing for the week ending June 8 was not so good as the previous week. The fish were small and dog-fish are doing great destruction on the coast.

A receipt of foreign salt mackerel at Boston, yesterday comprise 54 barrels Irish and 400 barrels Canadian. The market on the latter is firmer. New Irish are offered at $15 to arrive. They count about 600.

Advices from the Magdalene Islands reports mackerel fishing good there.

Sch. James & Esther, Capt. Samuel T. Hatch, is at Newport this morning with 89 barrels of fresh mackerel and sold them at 11 1-4 cents apiece. He reports sch. Nettie Franklin and eight other seiners 20 miles southeast of No Man's Land and some fish schooling there.

The harbor traps at Provincetown took several barrels of mackerel this week.

Sch. Saladin was at Provincetown Thursday.

Sch. M. Madeleine, Capt. Roland Brewer, arrived here this morning with eight barrels of fresh mackerel. The fare was handled by John Nagle & Co.

Sch. Constellation, Capt. Thaddeus Morgan, stocked $936 on her mackerel fare landed at Boston yesterday, giving her a stock of $2196 on her two trips landed in two days.

Sch. Ella M. Doughty of Portland has fitted and sailed on a seining trip.

The mackerel situation this morning looks brighter than for some time past and fishermen and dealers feel greatly encouraged at the present outlook. Good news comes from the southward, in Boston Bay, down east and several netters found fish off here last night landing good fares here this morning.

From Newport our regular correspondent send us the following cheerful news:

Sch. Hazel Oneita, Capt. Wm. Melanson, 250 barrels fresh mackerel.

Sch. Georgie Willard, Capt. G. Melvin Mc-Claim, 140 barrels fresh mackerel.

The fish were caught about 20 miles south-east of No Man's Land and about 10 sail are working on fish which were schooling there. The prospects are good.

Mackerel are reported on the Maine coast by the Portland fishermen and about 20 of the seining fleet are working on small schools in Boston bay. The steamer Water Witch which arrived here this morning reports seeing two vessels get fish on Middle Bank yesterday, both making jib hauls and salting their fish.

Tae fish which were landed here by the draggers this morning were mixed, going from large threes to extras.

One vessel is reported at New Bedford with 6000 fresh mackerel.

Several netters had small fares here this morning, John Nagle & Co., handling most of them at 12 cents apiece.

Several netters of the southern fleet arrived this morning, having given it up on account of the poor prospect.

THE SEASON'S BEST.

Stock of Sch. Olga Will Lead All the Shackers.

Was Fortunate in Striking High Market at Boston.

Capt. Horace Wildes and crew of sch. Olga are certainly in luck. The vessel, after making a fine trip, went out a few weeks ago and secured a small baiting at the Magdalenes, with which she went on Quero Bank and struck good fishing. Instead of going for another baiting, Capt. Wildes decided to come home with what he had, 79,000 pounds of fresh cod and 25,000 pounds of salt cod, and by so doing he struck it rich. The vessel arrived here on Thursday and found that the Boston market was bare and high prices prevailing. The vessel was immediately towed there, took out her fresh fish, and came back last night with a stock of $2640 to her credit. She will take out her salt fish here, and her stock will be $3000, which is the largest made on a shack trip this season and also one of the best on record.

A BIG ADVANCE.

No Man's Land Salt Mackerel Bring $14.50 Per Barrel.

The fare of No Man's Land salt mackerel of sch. Agnes E. Downes sold to Slade Gorton & Co. at $14.50 per barrel. This is the highest price paid for salt mackerel this season and is an advance of $1.75 over last sales.

Good Stock.

Sch. Diana, Capt. James McLean, stocked $2429.37 on her Cape Shore seining trip, the crew sharing $50.03.
